

The University of Verona

Learning Under Lockdown

How the University of Verona Saved the Academic Year with their Innovative Learning Technology Ecosystem

The University of Verona offers undergraduate, graduate, and doctoral programmes in a variety of disciplines. This forward-thinking institution is dedicated to adapting teaching and learning to its students' needs and continuously seeks to align its degree programs with the real world of work.

The Challenge

The University of Verona was using Moodle as its LMS and Zoom for live video conferencing. While both of those systems could be managed and used from any location, professors still had to physically be in the classroom on campus to record a lecture video. With limited classrooms equipped for lecture capture, booking time to record course videos outside of scheduled class time was often difficult, and sometimes impossible.

The team needed a software-centric video capture solution that would give professors more flexibility to record videos anytime, from anywhere. Sharing videos with students also had to be effortless.

The Solution

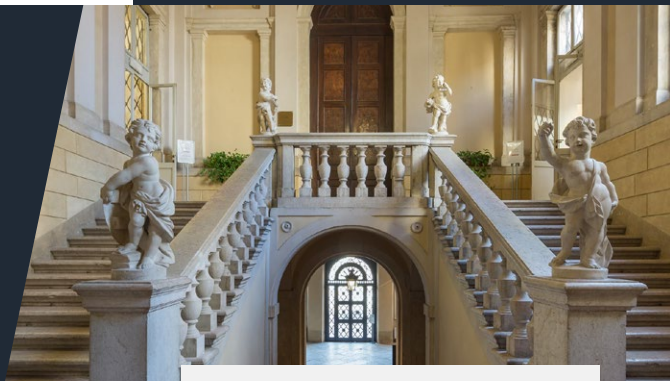

The University of Verona adopted Panopto to empower educators to explore new styles of teaching. After just one, hour-long workshop on using Panopto and Moodle, professors were able to easily begin using the new system, greatly expanding their video recording capabilities.

The university was also able to automate workflows to deliver video content securely to students via their LMS and manage the system remotely.

The Impact

At the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic, Italy imposed a national quarantine in an effort to slow the spread of the virus. While students at many other Italian universities experienced cancelled classes and significant disruptions, University of Verona students were able to continue the semester online without interruption.

One thing was certain – the university's early adoption of the right mix of learning technologies had set them up for success. "We felt prepared," says Silvano Pasquali, Head of the TID team, IST Area. "Though we did not anticipate the pandemic, we knew that our learning technology ecosystem could support us in the transition to online learning."

“Panopto was our first choice for a number of reasons, including its ease-of-use, its built-in integrations for other technologies we already used, and because the people behind the software really impressed us.”

- Silvano Pasquali, Head of the TID team, IST Area, University of Verona

About Panopto

Panopto helps universities and businesses create secure, searchable video libraries of their institutional knowledge. Serving more than 10 million end users, it's trusted by institutions including Yale, The Wharton School of Business, and the University of Washington.

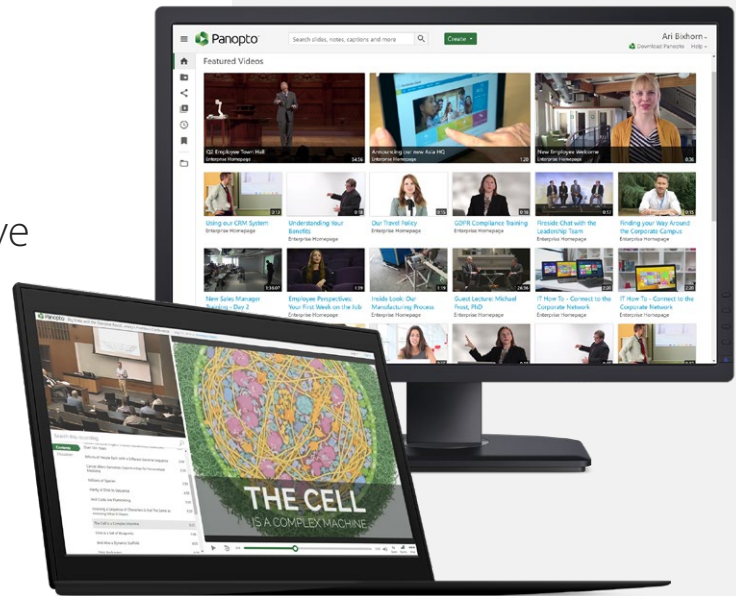

Try Panopto yourself.
panopto.com/try

FREE TRIAL

Panopto helps businesses and universities create secure, searchable video libraries of their institutional knowledge, and provide meeting intelligence solutions for productive and flexible collaboration at scale.

Since 2007, Fortune 500 companies and leading academic institutions, including GE, Qualcomm, New York Life, Duke, Stanford, and Oxford, rely on Panopto as an easy, all-in-one solution to capture videos and meeting recordings, live stream events, and share videos in a secure, searchable, YouTube-like portal.

Video Management:

Leverage Panopto's industry-leading video management platform to securely centralize, manage, and deliver videos online.

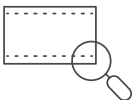

Video Recording:

Use Panopto's recording software in Windows, Mac, iOS, Android, or simply a web browser to record anything from a simple screencast to a multi-camera event.

Webcast:

With one click of a button, you can live stream and webcast to ten people across town or 10,000 around the world.

Search & Discovery:

Panopto's Smart Search feature empowers users to search every word spoken or written in a video, through the best-in-class automatic speech recognition (ASR), optical character recognition (OCR), and more.

Integration:

Enjoy Panopto's easy and advanced integrations with leading communication solutions and learning management systems, such as Microsoft Teams, Zoom, Webex, Canvas, Blackboard, and more. To learn more about integration, visit www.panopto.com/features/integration/.

The world's top organizations choose Panopto:

Try Panopto free in your organization.
Visit panopto.com/try to get started.